

Approach brief: Maja Hoffmann / LUMA Foundation

A values-first, peer-level opening

Who we are

The Global Artist Registry Foundation (GARF) is a Dutch stichting building a neutral, artist-controlled archive for the next 100 years. We help artists, estates, galleries, and collectors preserve provenance, documentation, correspondence, and born-digital works in one portable, cross-border record.

Why LUMA

LUMA has redefined what a contemporary arts foundation can be: artist-driven, interdisciplinary, long-term, and place-based. That mirrors how GARF thinks about preservation - not as cold storage, but as stewardship across generations. We believe the infrastructure around the art should be as thoughtful as the art itself.

Possible areas of collaboration

- Born-digital preservation pilot - a discreet, artist-consented test with one or two LUMA-commissioned artists to preserve process files, correspondence, and exhibition documentation inside GARF.
- Co-hosted conversation or publication - on the ecology of archives: energy, longevity, access, and the environmental cost of digital memory.
- Advisory exchange - Maja Hoffmann and the LUMA team could advise GARF on artistic integrity, sustainability standards, and the ethics of long-term custody.
- Joint statement on artist data sovereignty - artists can download their complete GARF record at any time. A shared principle, not a product feature.

The ask

A single, exploratory conversation - in person or by video - to see whether there is a natural fit. No funding request, no data request, and no obligation.

How to follow up

Jan S. Kindem, Founder

Global Artist Registry Foundation

<https://globalartistregistry.org>